A WOMAN'S IDEA OF REVENGE.

MRS. JEGGLIN EMULATES THE EX-AMPLE SET BY MRS. HIGHNOTE.

Seeks to Have Her Husband's Divorce Set Aside Because He Married Again-Many Disappointed Women-Court Doings.

Mrs. Lula A. Jegglin read in The Journal of the troubles that Mr. Highnote brought upon himself by marrying before his divorce from his first wife was finally adjudicated. Mr. Highnote's troubles gave Mrs. Jegglin an idea how to proceed in worrying Robert Jegglin, who had once been her husband. Jegglin was divorced from her several months ago, and was ordered to pay her alimony. He did not pay it, and Mrs. Jegglin filed a motion to set aside the divorce. That motion is yet pending, and until it is disposed of Mr.
Jegglin cannot congratulate himself that he is entirely free of Mrs. Jegglin. But he has matried again. Mrs. Jegglin was at the circuit court yesterday looking the matter up, and when she discovered that her motion to set aside the divorce was still unsettled, she shook her linger at the clerk and said:

"I'm going straight to hunch my lawyer
up and get that divorce set aside; and if I 60, Jegglin will be my husband, won't he?"

"Yes, of course," answered the clerk.

"Then just watch me tear that other woman's hair out." from her several months ago, and was or

Musser Divorce Case To-day.

Musser Divorce Case To-day.

The divorce suit of George W. Musser against Inez Musser, which is to be tried to-day in Judge Scarritt's division of the circuit court, will probably develop sensations enough to satisfy the hankerings of the morbid in that line. A great many witnesses have been subpoensed, among them nearly half of the male and female population of Oak Grove, and Judge Scarritt has set all other business aside for to-day so that he will not be hampered or interrupted in hearing the Musser case.

Mr. Musser is a salesman for the Standard Oil Company. His wife is said to be very good looking. Her husband accuses her of a good many mean things, among them that she and another woman, with two young men, drove from Kansas City to Cak Grove in a hack at night, and left behind them a trail of empty beer bottles glistening in the moonlight. The conduct of the quartette in Oak Grove so shocked the morals of the people of that quiet town that the landlord of its one hotel ordered them out, and they went.

Many Women With Acking Hearts.

Many Women With Aching Hearts. It was a weary looking lot of women that filed out of Judge Scarritt's courtroom yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. They were applicants for divorce and their witnesses. They had sat on the hard benches of the applicants for divorce and their witnesses. They had sat on the hard benches of the courtroom since early morning, with the exception of an hour's recess for luncheon at noon, waiting for their cases to be called; but the judge had other lawsuits to dispose of, and although the divorce cases had been listed for trial yesterday, the judge did not get to try but one of them.

And so the disconsolate women sat and waited, afraid to leave because their cases might be called at any moment. There were old women and young women; white women and black women; good looking women and homely women; women with babies in arms and women without; women that were well dressed and women whose clothing looked frowsy and tacky. There were sixty-three women in all, and all through the live-long day they whispered and giggled and drank so much water that the courtroom janitor had to fill the earthen water filter three different times.

This same crowd of women will have to return to the court another day and wait for their cases to be called.

Two Divorces Granted.

Two Divorces Granted. Ida M. Rogers was divorced yesterday by Judge Gates from George C. Rogers. She said he struck her with his fist, threatened to cut her throat and to shoot her.

Susie Hawkins, a negress, was given a divorce from Charles Hawkins yesterday by Judge Scarritt. She said he "called her all kinds of bad languages."

Dr. Park McDonald Dismisses His Suit for Divorce to Escape a Big Fee.

Dr. Park L. McDonald dismissed yesterday the divorce suit against his wife. This does not mean that Dr. and Mrs. McDonald will live together again. It is stated on the best of authority that they will not, but that a new suit for divorce will be filed soon, in which the only charge will be insoon, in which the only charge will be in-sompatibility of temper, and it will not be contested by Mrs. McDonald.

vorce there was bad feeling between him and his wife. She retained Attorney Henry Latshaw to file a cross-bill for her, but made no arrangement about the size of the fee he was to get. Later Dr. and Mrs. McDonald agreed to be divorced quietly, and he agreed to support her. She was living in his father's house. The case was set for trial yesterday in Judge Scarritt's court. Before it was called it was learned that her attorney had filed a motion that she be awarded $200 alimony and that he given judgment against the doctor for a $250 fee. Dr. McDonald thereupon consulted with his wife. She disayowed knowledge of the motions and they agreed to edge of the motions and they agreed to get rid of Attorney Latshaw by dismissing the suit.

Defense for Him.

James Reed, the negro who killed his mistress, will not be tried January 25, as was originally intended. His lawyers stated to Judge Wofford yesterday that if the case went to trial this month they would not have time to prepare for it. The judge set the trial for April 4, and told the lawyers he would not postpone it again. It s the belief of several court officers that and the delay is asked for to give Reed time to develop symptoms of lunacy. Reed does not deny that he murdered his misis hanged he will walk to the scaffold as coolly as did his father, Martin Reed, who was hanged four years ago.

The case against Robert Kerr, charged with selling the Chicago Mascot, was disnissed yesterday in the criminal court by Prosecutor Lowe. At the time of Kerr's arrest Mr. Lowe loudly beat the tom-tom, and had himself interviewed on the Mascot and other iniquitous publications. Like the cases against the gamblers, it has vanished in thin air.

BELL'S EFFORT FOR EFFECT

POLICE DO NOT BELIEVE HE IN TENDED TO COMMIT SUICIDE.

Stil, He Threatened His Own Life, He Had Poison and He Wrote a Note Telling Where His Body Could Be Found.

Three circumstances in one day in the life of Roy Bell, the 15-year-old son of S. W. Bell, of 2107 Highland avenue, point to the conclusion that it was his intention to commit suicide. The circumstances are as First-A threat against his own life. Second-A bottle of deadly poison. Third-A note to the effect that his body could be found at the bottom of the river. Roy is 15 years old. In the long years of all his life he has had considerable experence, more especially with the po Coming from any one other than Roy Bell, the dire threat, the deadly drug, the gloomy note, might arouse thoughts of a tragedy or visions of an inquest. Police who know Roy Bell say there is no fear that he will fly to the trouble he knows not of.

"If nobody died in this here world until fly to the trouble he knows not of.

"If nobody died in this here world until Roy committed harl-karl," said an old copper, "resurrection morn would find us all here and kicking just as usual."

The police say Roy has not been in jail for several months. He narrowly escaped getting behind the bars not so very long ago, while he was employed by the R. G. Dun Mercantile Company, when, it is claimed, he pilfered a purse containing $12 from the young woman stenographer. He was arrested, but his genius for tears and his eloquence as a pleader, coupled with the fact that he returned the money, obtained for him his freedom. After a period of idleness he went to work at the Bee Hive, on Main street, in the capacity of a cash boy. It is asserted that small sums of money and packages intrusted to his care have disappeared, but no complaint was made to the police.

Roy and several other cash boys in the Bee Hive were playing in a front gallery of the store yesterday when Manager L. J. Scheiff happened along. He reprimanded them and sent them to attend to their duties. A short time afterward Roy waited upon the manager and asked for his "time." It was given him and he left the store. Business went on as usual.

Along towards noon Roy called upon Manager Scheiff and asked to be reinstated. "I'm sorry, but I can't do it," said the manager; "your place has been filled." "All right, said Roy, "then I'll kill my-self."

He held up a bottle of chloroform that hors the label of Chelling towards room as to the post of the plant of Chelling Rose," days stare there the police of chloroform that here the label of Chelling Rose, days stare to the police of the label of Chelling Rose," days stare to the police of the label of the self."

He held up a bottle of chloroform that bore the label of O'Reilly Bros.' drug store as corroborative evidence of his intentions. Roy walked hurriedly away and Manager Scheiff forgot the circumstance until Albert Wright, a porter, ran to him and said Roy was in the cellar preparing to kill himself.

self.
"He's got a bottle of poison." breathlessly shouted Wright, "and I tried to take it away from him, but couldn't."
Manager Scheiff called Patrolman Henry Johnson into the store and sent him to the basement with the porter. There stood Roy holding the poison in his hand.
"Give me th' poison," commanded the officer.

"Give me th' poison," communication ficer.

Roy passed it over.

"Now, come along with me to see the captain."

Roy walked meekly away with the officer. At Central station he was searched. This note was found:

"You can find me at the bottom of the river if you want to find me. I could not help it.

"Roy." help it.

He was locked up for safe keeping.

The police say that while the circumstances seem to indicate that Roy intended killing himself, his leisurely manner, his rather elaborate advertisement of the deed he intended to do and the fact that he had time to swallow the poison—and didn't—after the porter left him, prove conclusively that he had no evil design upon his life.

"It was a bluff," said the officer, "Sure, I know them."

TURNED ON THE GAS TO DIE. Taylor Meyer, a Laborer Out of Work, Seeks in Vain to End

His Life. Taylor Meyer, 50 years, of Lima, O., was found unconscious from gas inhalation in a room at 914 Wyandotte street, upstairs, yesterday morning, by Mrs. R. M. Orem, who has charge of the apartments. Every gas let in the room had been turned on and Mrs. Orem's attention was drawn to the room by the odor of the gas, which filled the hallway adjoining it. She at once notified the police and Meyer was removed to Central station, where he was speedily notined the police and Meyer was removed to Central station, where he was speedily revived by a surgeon.

Meyer said he had been taken into the room by a tall blonde woman named "Emma," whom he met on the street. When he had gone to sleep, he claims, the woman robbed him of $18 and opened the gas jets. She then left him.

Mrs. Orem says Meyer has been rooming for two weeks at her house, and owed her rent. When she asked him for it he said he would pay it Wednesday. She says Meyer has had no money since coming to her and that he turned on the gas himself, with the idea of suicide Wednesdaynight after he went to the room. The presence of a bottle of chloroform under his pillow seems to bear out her theory. It was found after Meyer had been taken from the room. Meyer will not deny or affirm that he meant to kill himself. He is a laborer.

Say Home Talent Is Discriminated Against by School Board in Anpointment of Teachers.

Editor Williams, of the Observer, a ne gro paper, yesterday visited Secretary Benson, of the board of education, and gave notice that the negroes in the city were, according to himself, very much agi-tated over some of the appointments of colored teachers in the schools. He claimed that he knew of several instances in which the board had appointed colored teachers who were not the products of the Kansas City schools. He said that the negro tax-City schools. He said that the negro tax-payers of the city considered that the young colored people who graduate from the Lincoln high school of this city and have always lived in Kansas City were as fully equipped to teach in the Kansas City colored schools as those coming from other colored schools as those coming from other states.

"The board is partial, we are afraid," said Williams. "The colored ministers of the city are going to join the negro press in advocating that something be done to give the Kansas City colored young men and women who graduate from the Kansas City schools the opportunity to make a living and use their education without having to go outside of their own city to do it."

Williams then declared that unless cer-

Williams then declared that unless certain colored teachers who had been appointed were not discharged and Kansas City people given the preference in the appointments, the colored citizens would wait on the board in a body and declare their intentions of bringing about some kind of reform. Secretary Benson referred Williams to President Yeager, of the board.

TWO OLD CITY WARRANTS. Secretary Benson Has a Couple of Curios Which He Prises Far Above

Their Face Value. Secretary W. E. Benson, of the board of education, has in his office in the library building two city treasury warrants, issued when Kansas City, or rather, the City of Kansas, was in its swaddling clothes. The two warrants are framed and occupy a conspicuous position on the mantel. One reads as follows:

reads as follows:

Treasury Warrant. No. 5072 Mayor's Office. Kansas City, Mo.. July 10th, 1861. Treasurer of the City of Kansas, one day after date pay to Owen O'Flaherty, or order, 75c out of the general fund. By order of the city council, July 8, 1861. Attest: Michael Smith, Register.

The other place of well worn and yellow

The other piece of well worn and yellow paper was made out November 13, 1865,
and signed by Patrick Shannon, mayor.
It is payable to John Walsh. Neither warrant was ever paid, for some reason.

"I suppose the city is still liable for the face value of these two warrants, but they are now worth more as curios than the amount they call for," said Mr. Benson.

tenden spent four years there as consul general and has just rturned from a trip through the principal cities of Mexico with Mr. W. J. Bryan.

"I was surprised and delighted at the popularity and prominence Minister Clayton has won since going there," he continued, "and I predict for him a noteworthy career and believe he will be of much usefulness to the government he represents. He has already made the acquaintance of all the Americans who are located at the capital and is one of the most popular men at the American Club. His close acquaintance with the American residents there is of great value to them and much benefit to him, and it serves to greatly popularize the American colony. The individual members of the colony there are interested in various pursuits and their mingling with the government's officials serves to make them have a more exalted opinion of the figs of their native country.

"General Clayton has not only won the esteem and good will of the Americans there but has been most courteously received by the Mexican residents and holds a very exalted position in their estimation. He is a suave and polished man, and in ihs social relations with the residents there has been ably assisted by Mrs. Clayton, who is one of the most gracious of American women. They have secured the good will and confidence of the best citizens there in a very surprising degree and he will thus have the opportunity of doing so much more for our government in his business relations. The fag of our country will float high while such men as Minister Clayton represent it in foreign lands. American visitors to Mexico will have cause for gratification in witnessing the consideration given our minister there and noting the deserved honors shown him." the consideration given our minister there and noting the deserved honors shown

POSTAL CHANGES NEEDED.

Government Is Recommended to Make Deliveries by Carrier Throughout Greater Kansas City.

The postoffice department recently sent to Postmaster Reed a letter inquiring what changes would be deemed advisable in renewing the mail wagon contracts that expire next year. These inquiries are usually newing the mail wagon contracts that expire next year. These inquiries are usually made a year or more in advance, so that full consideration may be given the suggestions. The reply to the suggestions was prepared by Assistant Postmaster Seldlitz and has been forwarded to Washington.

He recommends that the wagon service between Kansas City and Westport be discontinued, that a full postal station be located in Westport and the transfer of mail to and from the station be made by the street cars. This will not only reduce the time, but will enable the mail to be exchanged between the main office and Westport several times daily.

Several months prior to the consolidation of the two cities the certainty of consolidation was forwarded to the department with a map of the city showing the extent of the territory to be taken in and the suggestions the office here had to make for the information of the department. Nothing has been heard from it. The ultimate result, the office here believes, will be the change from an office to a station as suggested. With this is expected to come an order for enough additional carriers to enlarge the free delivery boundaries so as to cover the full territory of the city.

FRESHMAN CLASSES GROW.

Both High Schools Preparing for In creased Attendance-Queer Graduating Rule at the Manual High.

The two high schools are preparing the courses of study for the second term of the school year, which begins a week from next Monday. The daily programmes of recitations are being altered to make room next Monday. The daily programmes of recitations are being altered to make room for the pupils who will graduate from the ward schools at the end of the first term. At the Manual Training school Principal Morrison is reducing the number of classes and increasing their size in order to provide recitation hours for the ward school graduates. These changes occur only in the freshmen classes of the two high schools. The indications are that the Manual Training high school will have a good sized graduating class this year, despite the fact that the school started only this year. The senior class is made up mostly of pupils who completed three years of academic work at the Central school.

"Of course the seniors this year will only have had one year of manual training and drawing, but their time at the Central school, of course, entitles them to graduate," said Professor Morrison yesterday. "The first graduating class that will have had a full four years' course of manual training and academic work will be the members of this year's freshman class."
